“ Travis, you spread those wings you here me! you fly as high as those butterflies that you always talked about, you here! I can't even imagine something so delicate and beautiful could leave us just like that but I know gods plan for you and I'm sure you fought hard to stay here with us all but it was time for god to take care of you, like you took care of so many people when you were here. You are so loved and I will always cherish our friendship to the end. Thank you for being such the amazing person that you were and still is. We all love you always.....
